PRESS RELEASE: 100,000 Call for the Release of Last Briton in Guantanamo

12 April 2013

Over 100,000 people in Britain have signed an official e-petition urging the government to demand the immediate release of the last British detainee in Guantanamo Bay, Shaker Aamer. The issue has now become eligible to be listed for a parliamentary debate.

Shaker - whose wife and four children are British nationals - is now in the eleventh year of his detention despite being cleared for release by the Bush administration in 2007 and the Obama administration in 2010. He is amongst more than 160 prisoners, currently on hunger strike in protest at their ongoing detention and is reported to have lost 32lbs in the past two months. Â Irene Nembhard of Birnberg Peirce and Partners, representing the family, said:

â€œShakerâ€™s family hopes that a debate in the House of Commons will galvanise the government into making the strongest demand for Shakerâ€™s immediate release, including making an interstate complaint to the UN Committee Against Torture. Â As a British family, they expect that their Government will do everything possible to bring their husband and father home to them.â€•

Shakerâ€™s wife, Â Zinnira Aamer, stated: Â â€œMy eyes are filled with tears as I write this - but this time they are tears of joy. We are so relieved and overjoyed that the petition for Shaker Aamer has reached its target of 100,000 signatures before its deadline. Shaker will be very pleased to know that we made it till here as it is another step forward towards his freedom.â€• Â Their children, in a brief statement, added, â€œWe couldnâ€™t have done it without each and every one of you. Thanks to all 100,000 people who signed and showed support regardless of race and religion. We wish you all happiness and letâ€™s hope that our Dad will be home soon so we can be happy too.â€•Â Â Constituency MEP for London, Baroness Sarah Ludford commented:

â€œIt is simply unacceptable that although Shaker was cleared for release in 2007, he has yet to be allowed back home. As constituency MEP for London, I believe that Shaker Aamer and his family have suffered enough â€“ it is time for the last Londoner in Guantanamo to be brought home. It is high time that this issue is debated by MPs and now that the petition has received the support of 100,000 people I call on the Backbench Business Committee to arrange in Parliament a debate as soon as possible. This will keep up the pressure on the UK Government to secure the return of Shaker Aamer to London without further delay. I will continue as an MEP and as vice-chair of the European Parliament delegation to the United States to push for the closure of Guantanamo.â€•

Aamer, said:

"It's great that this injustice can finally be brought before parliament. Hopefully, this is the start of the process that sees him back at home, with his family. He certainly has done nothing to deserve 11 years without trial."
